ABOUT QSC

The Queen's Space Conference (QSC) is Canada's premier undergraduate space conference, held annually at Queen's University. Organized entirely by students, QSC brings together top undergraduate talent, industry professionals, and researchers to explore Canada's role in the past, present, and future of space exploration. Through engaging panels, keynote speeches, and networking opportunities, QSC fosters discussion around innovation in space technology, policy, and research, while empowering the next generation of space leaders.

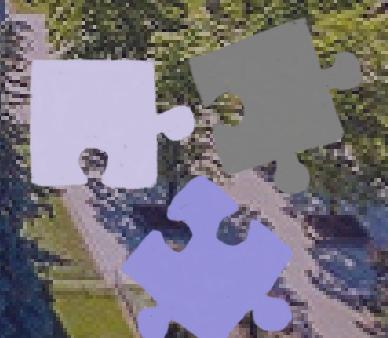

Now in its 18th year, QSC continues to grow in scale and impact, offering a unique platform where students can connect with impactful companies.

NOTE FROM CO-CHAIRS

We are thrilled to introduce you to the 18th annual Queen's Space Conference (QSC)! For nearly two decades, Canada has brought together the brightest undergraduate minds with industry leaders, innovators, and researchers to explore Canada's role in space. At QSC, we believe innovation happens where great minds connect, and that's where you come in. Your support plays a vital role in making QSC possible. With your partnership, we can continue to grow the conference, empowering students across Canada to push boundaries and pursue a future in the space industry. Sponsorship offers a unique opportunity to promote your company to young minds, connect with emerging talent, and support the growth of a student-run conference. We would be honoured to collaborate with you in making the 2026 Queen's Space Conference the best one yet!

Sincerely,
Sanjana Sinha & Isabel Wettlaufer-Wang
